... The Leadership ...

Attained by this store is due to its High Standards of Quality and its ability to under-sell. It's the logical results of great satisfaction giving and greater value giving. This store sets its standards of quality so high that none but absolutely satisfactory merchandise is obtainable here. This store's colossal purchasing power enables it to obtain from its sources of supply concessions beyond the reach of concerns of lesser magnitude. This is plain everyday logic, and affords ample reason why you should make this store your headquarters for not merely a portion but all of your future clothing needs.

SAVINGS TALKS.

A BANKER ONCE SAID that even if Marshall Field had asked him to go into a mining venture, he would have declined. But if he had been asked to put money into Field's wholesale or retail business, he would not have hesitated a minute. What course do business men follow when they want money to carry on their business? They do not seek the man with small means and ask him to invest; they borrow the money outright. Promoters know that the small investor cannot put a few hundred dollars into an established business. They go to him with a promising offer of giving him more than any safe business would dare to promise. Guard your savings carefully. A savings bank offers the man who saves, exceptional opportunities for the safekeeping of his funds. A stated amount of interest is paid regularly. Your funds if placed with us are invested where there is the smallest possible risk.

Enthusiastic Service at Presbyterian Church

Large Sum of Money Raised by Rev.
P. H. Case in a Short Time.

Rev. Prentiss H. Case announced through our columns last week that the morning Service was to be of exceptional nature. In response to his "Church Rally Day" notice a congregation gathered that more than filled the auditorium of the church.

The Service was indeed exceptional. There was a solo by Olin Beavis and Olin never sang better. There was a special sermon by Rev. Case. In a few well chosen words Mr. Case outlined the winter's work urging the church to make the successes of the past a foundation for greater achievements for the Master in the future. He emphasized the fact that this would necessitate many personal sacrifices for Christ. In answer to the question "Is the age of heroism past?" Rev. Case said that it was not, and cited several examples of great sacrifice for the cause of Christ that have occurred during the past few years. These proved the existence of the heroic. Then Rev. Case elaborated the idea of heroism in the little things along the line of the commoner duties of Faith.

At the close of the sermon Mr. Case suggested as a fitting close to the most successful year in the history of the church, the raising of the old debt. This would also be a becoming beginning for the "Forward movement" inaugurated for the coming months. There had been placed upon a black-board amounts which footed the entire amount of the debt. One after another these were subscribed. Almost all was subscribed at the morning service. At Sunday School more was subscribed. Mr. Beavis' class leading off with a subscription of ten dollars.

We are pleased to state that the entire amount was subscribed and there is naturally much rejoicing among the Presbyterian people. The best feature of the whole thing was the Spirit in which it was all done. There was no pulling back or urgent appeals necessary but each one took hold to the best of his ability and in a most joyful manner the debt was raised.

A Successful Sale.

The auction sale held at Chas. Martin's 1/2 mile east and 1 mile north of Avoca, on Nov. 12, was the largest attended sale in the county this year, over 1000 people being present. Geo. W. Bell was auctioneer. The machinery and stock sold footed $3,610 and was disposed of in less than three hours. Cows brought as high as $71 and 5 horses sold for $1,750. One suckling colt was bid in at $200. Mr. Martin is more than pleased with the way the sale was conducted and recommends to those who contemplate having a sale to engage Mr. Bell as auctioneer for it will pay them every time. Every sale conducted by Mr. Bell this year has proven successful financially and otherwise. Arrangements can be made at the Expositor office for dates and bills for we have a list of future sales.

The Family Reading Problem.

To find reading that satisfies one's craving for the bright and attractive, and is at the same time perfectly suitable for impressionable young people, is at times difficult. The best magazines are admittedly published for mature readers only. The Youth's Companion alone is for all the family. While the editors keep in mind the eager desire of the young for tales of action, enterprise and adventure, these stories in the Youth's Companion are so well written as to fascinate men and women in all stages of life's journey. And this is true not only of the fiction in the Companion, but of the entire contents. The articles, by famous writers, convey knowledge that is useful to the wisest and most experienced as well as to the immature. In short, the Companion solves the reading problem for the entire family. It is entertaining and it is "worth while."

Every new subscriber will find it of special advantage to send at once the $1.75 for the new 1910 Volume. Not only does he get the beautiful "Venezian" Calendar for 1910, lithographed in thirteen colors and gold, but all the issues of The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1909, from the time the subscription is received.

It is getting the time of year when it makes the mail carrier think bad words when he has to take off his mitts to dig a few pennies out of the mail box, because the patron has neglected to procure the necessary stamps. From now until warm weather next spring people on rural routes should provide themselves with stamps and save their mail carrier a whole lot of trouble during the cold days.
